No one who puts together this much material can do it all alone. The ones who gave me my head start were the late Bruce Olsen, whose ABC versions of so many tunes got me going, and Gregory Blount, whose "Music of the Broadside Ballad" website was the starting point of choice for a great deal of my research.

The invaluable assistance and encouragement of my Wife, Brandy Powers, and my mentor, George Reed, kept me going when sometimes I just wanted to chuck it all. Early inspiration came from the work, example, and whiskey tenor of John ap Wyn. If you find anything you can use here, they are in fairness partly responsible as well. Any mistakes and problems you encounter probably came from me.

See, Thorholla? I wrote it down.
